

Margaret Bradley Fiegel

February 20, 1940 - May 13, 2020

Margaret Mary Bradley Fiegel passed away on May 13 at the age of 80. She is survived by her sons Brian Francis Moyer and Mark Bradley Moyer

Our mother was our hero. She took the bold step and left a very difficult marriage with two small boys and without a job or even a drivers license and doing so was also against everything this Irish Catholic women was raised to believe.

She ultimately got a job and a car and vowed that no one would look at her sons and say "those boys need a father". She taught us not only how a gentleman behaves but how to behave as a human.

Our mother loved the arts. She was always involved in community theater and was a member of Playcrafters of Skippack and a lifetime member of Dutch Country Players. She was also a trained classical singer and a graduate of the Lansdale Conservatory of Music in 1961. She performed in musicals, sang in church and loved Irish folk music. Hated house cleaning so to get through it, she would stack up Clancy Brothers albums on the record player and the three of us would go at it.

In 1973, she married her second husband, Charles G. Fiegel who passed away in 2004 and has now joined him.

She will beautifully remembered.
